

Abstract of the Disclosure:

A microprocessor circuit includes a control unit, a memory for free programming with at least one program having functions, a stack for buffer-storing data, a register bank having at least 5 one register, and an auxiliary register that stores a number of bits, each of the bits being assigned to one of the registers of the register bank and indicating whether or not a respective register of the register bank contains information items.

GLM/bb